

The mother returns!

Introduction (or – a few words about the world we live in)

Living in the world today, It's hard not to notice a few prominent facts.

First – the time is a difficult one upon the face of mother earth. Its enough to open the first page of the newspaper or to randomly listen to the news on the radio in order to realize that we live in a tough ,violent and painful reality.

The second fact is – the world is changing. Patterns of pyramids and hierarchy, patterns of war (often in the name of obsolete justice) ,patterns of "me against the rest of the world", patterns claiming that bigger is better, more is good, and "the winner takes it all" – all of which I suggest are more masculine patterns in nature – those are slowly and gradually getting weaker.

On the other hand, patterns of circles and spirals, of community, where everyone has a place around the fire, no one is better than the other, patterns that accept different kind of creations, of beauty, and patterns that value the pain of birth too much to spare it in wars, patterns that value the taste of an apple, even if it costs only 50 cents, and recognize the tranquility of an old tree – those patterns I suggest are more feminine and becoming more and more dominant and present in our lives.

Naturally – the change is slow, and far from complete, but the trend is clear and much easier to notice today than it has been even a few years ago.

And as part of that trend that surrounded the entire planet – many options, experiences and opportunities which once were impossible, are accessible today, as they were thousand of years ago.

One of those is the return of an ancient, magnificent, and loving presence – the mother. Not that she ever went away, but like in an orchestra, when at any given time few instruments are very dominant while the other are only background sounds, the time is changing, and her beautiful music can clearly be heard once more.

What is the-mother? (or what are we actually talking about)

The-mother is the cosmic mother. The great Goddess. The essence of femininity, the cosmic womb. She is the mother of all being, the great entity that gives birth to all that was, is and will ever be dreamed of. She is an energy, a being, ancient and magical. She is the mother of us all, from time earlier than our first life time. She is magnificent, primary, being of love, creation and beauty. The mother has countless names, shapes and faces. In different cultures she would be named differently and would have different stories and legends connected to her. Some of her faces are famous and known to many. Some are mysterious and known only to a few.

Coming from a background of shamanistic work, I have encountered many spirits, energies and being from the other worlds and made connections that were being enabled thanks to my teachers and a lot of practice and hard work. And still, I have never met any being cosmic, munificent and loving as the mother. Surprisingly, unlike many of those other spirits, which only few has an opportunity to communicate with, the connection to the mother is open to everyone who desires in it.

How do you create that connection? Just a few more lines.....

What does it mean to be a carrier of the-mother? (or- welcome to a world of magic, luck, and open doors)

For me, the connection to the mother has a few aspects. The first and most important one in my opinion as someone who carries the-mother's energy: she surrounds me at all times. That means that whenever I go into a shopping mall, a trail of silvering stars stays after me. Whenever I have a business meeting, something of that blessing touches the people I meet as well. Every time I pay my bills through the phone – something of the-mother's presence touches the person on the other side of the line – and to me that's huge.

The other aspect and the more practical one: as a person who carries the-mother, she helps me in the everyday life, in anything I ask. Let this idea sink for a moment : imagine you had a link to someone who would help you fulfill wishes – like magic! – so I'm happy to tell you that there is such a thing, and everyone can be "well connected", what can help manage the everyday life in a much easier, pleasant manner.

And what are we talking about? It could be things as simple as asking for help with finding a parking place, a new job, a place to stay when all the hotels seem to be fully booked, help with relationships, with healing, with promoting ideas to reality and easy way out of sure mistakes – each is an example of things that have happened to people who requested help for themselves. It is indeed a link to magic and small miracles. The-mother is a being which is far beyond my grasp of understanding, and still there is nothing which is too "small" or "insignificant" to ask her help with. She's here to help.

Naturally – carrying the-mother doesn't mean we should stop working, creating and investing in the things we want – not at all, But it can make things a lot easier. And often much more significant than we thought.

The last and deepest aspect for me, as someone who carries the-mother, is that from the moment the connection happened, I'm never alone. in each and every moment I am surrounded by a presence of love, comfort, and something that want good things to happen for me – like a soft fur in a freezing night. And that – for me – is priceless.

How can anyone become a carrier of the-mother? (or – where do I sign)

The-mother revealed herself for the first time (at least that aspect of her) a few years ago to a special man who has devoted his life for the service of the feminine essence and existence in the world. It happened on a frozen hill on Glastonbury, England (see "Dov's story) and he became the beginning of a worldwide growing web of people – women and men – who carry the-mother, by passing them the connection The passing is always performed in group of seven people of the same sex – seven women or seven men.

A good visualization of the-mother's energy is of fire – you can always take a torch out of a burning bonfire, and it wouldn't be missed, while you can start countless of other bonfires. The connection works the same way – giving it away doesn't take it from the giver. On the contrary – this is the only way to maintain the connection further on, while giving that gift to others.

The-mother's transmission is always free!!! it cannot involve money passing of any way, no matter what. However, the blessed presence of the great mother is not without a price.

Each person, woman or man, who receives the connection to the-mother, will have it for seven months. Assuming that during those months they did feel a few of the things I have so passionately described here and they feel this connection is indeed a great gift – they need to pass it further to seven other people, in order to have the connection for additional seven months. This way, people who got something amazing will give something back by giving it to other people, and in larger scale, the presence of the great mother in world will grow, while more and more people carry her beauty and blessing. Good for the giver, good for the world. Indeed, a win win situation.

Some might ask – if this is really the cosmic mother we're talking about – how can she "fade away"? isn't she a part of us all, all the time, regardless of what we do or do not do?

The answer is that she is, in fact, always a part of us all. However, there are all kind of connections. We can all call the city hall service department, complaining that street lights next to our home aren't working. However, if the mayor and I are close friends, and I have his number on my speed dial - the lights will probably be fixed in no time. The connection I'm talking about in the article is about being with close intimate connection to the great mother of us all. And that's something completely different.

So – this Is the-mother, and the connection to her was probably the best gift I ever got. I have no doubt that more people would carry her presence and be a part of her beautiful web – most chances are we will find ourselves in a better, much less painful world, and good things will happen, in the newspaper and out of it.

RAOHAN SNIR
rohan.snir@gmail.com